OK's flood plain amendment

PlanCom kills Slope Density Formula

There was standing room only in the Planning Commissioners' chambers last Wednesday, when the question of the slope density formula and the flood plain zoning amendment came up again for consideration. After a lengthy meeting, slope density was defeated and the flood zone amendment approved by the commissioners.

A show of hands indicated the crowd to be about 90% against the two matters and as the meeting progressed it became evident that Carmel Valley residents had been joined by large numbers from both South and North county areas.

Most eloquent speaker opposed to the passage of slope formula was Upper Valley Advisory Committee Chairman Morden Buck. He stated that most opposition to the plan had been on the basis of engineering, hardship and legal problems and aesthetics and ecology (mutural relation between organisms and their environment) had been ignored. He felt that minimizing development by increasing lot sizes was not the answer and virtually eliminated the possibility of incentive zoning which could preserve hillside vistas with cluster and greenbelt application.

He emphasized protection of Valley hillsides with the example of what Del Mesa Carmel would have been if cluster zoning had not been approved, i.e., only 70 units would have been located on the flat plateau with the remainder littering the hillsides, including at least three miles of road scars.

His main objection was that SD only dealt with a fragment instead of the problem as a whole.

George Brown, representing the CVPOA who had backed the Slope Density Plan in principle for the past three years, stated that without SD the Valley population could easily be 60,000. He criticized the last minute opposition to it as seen in the packed chambers. He added that without a control of density four or six lanes of road would be necessary in the foreseeable future. He strongly urged adoption of the plan.

Dr. Joseph Noto, speaking in opposition compared the landowners who have millions of dollars invested to stockholders with PlanCom similar to a board of directors. He felt the voice of the people had to be heard.

"Slope Density was born in Carmel Valley and I hope it will die there. If you take a vote of hill owners you will

April 11 deadline

In order to be eligible to vote in the June primary, voters must register by April 11.

Registration or change of address or name of already registered voters is handled in Carmel Valley at Things Camera, next to Giuseppe's Workshop.

Carmel area residents may register at the City Hall on Monte Verde between Ocean and 7th.

Thrift Shop sale

Carmel Valley Community Chapel Thrift Shop is celebrating its fourth year of operation with its annual half price sale, beginning this Saturday.

The shop, located on the second floor of Fellowship Hall, adjacent to the church, is discounting all pieces of merchandise 50%. The sale will continue on Tuesday, March 26, Thursday, March 28 and on Saturday, March 30.

A snack bar, featuring hot dogs, coffee and birthday cake will be in operation both Saturdays, when the hours are 11-4 p.m. On Tuesday and Thursday the shop will be open from 11 to 3 p.m.

Meeting at Community Center tonight on probation policies

A meeting will be held tonight, Wednesday, March 20, at the Community Center for any interested people to have their questions answered by representatives of the County Probation Office. The men present at the 8 p.m. meeting will be those who deal directly with the problems of the youngsters in the Valley.

Six members of the town meeting committee met last Wednesday, March 13 at the Blue Sky Lodge to discuss what areas they would like to know about and what is the general policy of the department.

Louis Gardner reported that several times in the past fifteen years there have been problems and questions regarding the handling of Valley youngsters by the Probation Office and that each time a committee of citizens had been able to work with the Probation Office in working out solutions.

On Thursday night, March 14 the committee met with Mr. Al Giovanetti, Chief Probation Officer, at an informal meeting to clarify many of the points on which there had been some doubt as to the Probation Office policy. Mr. Giovanetti reported that the handling of a child brought into the office was left to the discretion of the Probation Officer in charge of the case and that his decision was based on several factors.

Tonight parents will be able to find out more about these factors that go into making a decision by the men who make them. Interested persons are urged to be there.

Any further action to be taken by this committee will be decided after the Wednesday night meeting and a summary of its activities and conclusions will be drawn up.

Annual Cancer Fund drive to begin April 1

Speaking to the volunteer workers for the annual Cancer Fund Drive scheduled for the first week in April, actor Bob Carson told of the hopes and the realization of cancer research. Carson, who was the voice of God in the film, "The Ten Commandments," has been a cancer volunteer for 11 years and heads the Celebrities Council, a group of well known persons who are willing to appear in support of community drives.

His message to the workers who met at the kick-off lunch last week told of two things every American should do to help alleviate the 1 out of 4 rate of cancer in this country.

A yearly trip to the doctor with specific cancer tests was number one.

"There is no penalty for being over-examined," Carson said. "But the panelty for under-examination could be your life."

RECOGNITION OF SIGNS

He also reiterated the recognition of cancer warning signals, an informative part of every leaflet put out by the American Cancer Society, as number two.

Monterey County Supervisor Willard Branson is the Crusade Chairman of the drive and he introduced local chairmen and workers. The drive will be held in Carmel and in Carmel Valley during the first week in April with the final day culminating in the turning over of funds on the evening of April 8.

Committee formed

Pre-teens suggest solutions

Approximately 80 pre-teen youngsters met with a committee of seven adults, Thursday, March 14, for one of the most active and productive meetings on the matter of the children of Carmel Valley. The kids fired suggestions and questions to Mrs. Nancy Cal, who acted as moderator for the entire 1-1/2 hours allotted.

The youngsters were informed that their suggestions would be taken under advisement but that they were not promising anything. They were also asked just how they thought they could get things started and how they would suggest governing themselves. They had the answers!

Out of their suggestions the need for an organization similar to the CVYO became obvious. They expressed a willingness to do anything necessary to see such an organization formed. After the youngsters left at 8:30, the adults met with several other interested adults who set themselves up as a temporary board for this pre-teen Youth Group. This board is composed of the following members: Nancy Cal, Dr. Patricia May, Kevin Walsh, Phyliss Walsh, Homer Gruver, Ruth Myers, Louise Neidinger, Thelma Sovoldi and Phyliss Grissom.

The youngsters nominated eight of their group to represent them at any future meetings with the adults until such time as the organization is under way. These youngsters, Cindy Shepherd, Kathy Simpson, Scott McGowan, Manuel Mancebo, Tom Olmsted, Billy Neidinger, Brian Hackenburger, and Don Meharry, will meet with three members of the board at the home of Dr. May on Thursday, March 21 at 4:30 to discuss setting up a Youth Organization for the Pre-Teens.

MARCH 28 MEETING

Two or three representatives of the newly formed Pre-Teen Youth Board will meet with the Community Center Board on Thursday, March 28, prior to the beginning of their annual meeting. Pres. Doyt Early has said that the board would gladly hear the findings of the committee which met Thursday, March 14, to discuss the possibilities of increasing the number of activities available to the pre-teens of the community.

This committee is primarily interested in knowing how much time the Community Center is available for use by an organized group at this age level.

Red Cross Drive in need of Valley Chairman

Halfway through the March Red Cross month, the Carmel chapter still lacks a chairman for the Carmel Valley. We have many people willing, and who are, calling on their neighbors for their contributions, said Francis (Skip) Lloyd, fund chairman, but so far we have no one willing to coordinate these workers' efforts.

This is a crucial year for the Red Cross which is being called upon to make unprecedented expenditures for our servicemen overseas, Mr. Lloyd continued, especially in Vietnam and Korea. Our Carmel chapter is feeling the effects of an increasing number of local men in service and is being called upon frequently for emergency communications and assistance by their families.

The two most expensive programs of the local chapter, Mr. Lloyd explained, are the ambulance service and the blood program. We believe these programs merit the unstinting support of our local residents and believe they are ready and willing to help keep these services operating while doing their part to support Red Cross services to our servicemen. Really, our only problem is seeing to it that no one in Carmel Valley misses the opportunity to give his share because no one has asked him for his contribution.

The chapter goal this year is $32,981, or which 74% is for local services.

Death of slope density formula

The proposed slope density formula was shot down unexpectedly and thoroughly by the County Planning Commission last Wednesday.

What the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, the county planning staff and outside consultants had labored over for several years was finished off in one afternoon.

The big opposition which killed it came from outside Carmel Valley, although the idea was developed specifically for Carmel Valley.

The county planning staff had done its best to allay fears that proposed slope-density controls would not be applied to other areas in the county without their consent. Although legal procedure requires that the first step of the slope density proposal be approved into the county zoning ordinance, implementation in any specific area would require establishment of a special-treatment district. Thus, to put the proposed slope density formula into effect in any area, even if it had been passed into the zoning ordinance, would have required the usual hearings, one before the Planning Commission, another before the Board of Supervisors.

Nevertheless, the thought of the existence of enabling legislation on the books was sufficient to rally opposition of rural areas far beyond Carmel Valley. Many ranchers also objected to an accompanying, grading-control proposal, whose aim was to control promiscuous grading and damage to steep hillsides. Ranchers felt it would impose on them the necessity of getting a permit for such routine bulldozer work as digging water holes.

In the face of the overwhelming opposition from a majority in the county, the planning commissioners rejected the slope density formula which had been developed for Carmel Valley exclusively. This was in spite of the favoring arguments and vote by the Valley's representative and PlanCom Chairman Dr. Ed Marcucci. Several years of work and study were tossed out because no legal machinery was available to establish the slope density concept definitely, exclusively for Carmel Valley alone.

Not that there wasn't some local objection, too, although for different reasons. Morden Buck eloquently put the case against by suggesting, for one reason, that it would nearly block the cluster concept which, in some cases, would help preserve unspoiled hillsides. He suggested new study of the problem including some sort of incentive to encourage developers to proceed with asthetic appreciation of the land.

"We enjoy the blessing of living in the most beautiful and the most unspoiled country I know," Buck declared, agreeing with the proponents' general thesis, although differing in method to achieve it. "It must be kept that way by sound, reasonable law. Law based on deep affection for the land and justice for all our citizens, including those who follow us."

There seems to be agreement by most people concerned that protection of the hillsides needs a basis of law, that the public interest requires some system of control to prevent scarring, hodge-podge development. With the slope density formula tossed out the window, more ideas are urgently needed. While most developers in Carmel Valley have done well by the land and conserving its natural beauty, the problem and its threat shouldn't be left to chance.

PERSPECTIVE TO THE EDITOR

Shopping center unwanted

Editor, The Outlook:

Belatedly, I am writing to add my own protest against the proposed new shopping center and to endorse wholeheartedly every word in Mrs. Klikovac's excellent letter in The Outlook of March 6, which spells out so clearly, item by item, the already abundant supply we have in the various types of commercial stores, shops and restaurants with a few present vacancies that might accommodate the only item on Mr. Bennett's list not now here — a bakery.

After my first reading of the proposed shopping center (which I read with amazement), on my next trip to the Village I confirmed my impression of the exceedingly bad location for the purpose. That left turn into the Community Center or some part of the school — and the return to the highway — requires special caution as it is. To have this hazard added to our accident prone Valley road seems to me to call for an active examination of the problem from some powers that be — whether with actual authority or with pressure influence.

I have noticed that while there is general disapproval and protest against this unreasonable scheme (I've heard no one favor it) the last words have often been "But it's zoned for commercial use" and so much of the protest hasn't surfaced. But surely, those who at the time agreed to commercial zoning on that land never visualized anything like a disruptive, unwanted, extra shopping center!

Need we be bound by that for lack of foresighted cautious wording, or provision? That would be a form of mortmain we don't deserve.

Sincerely,
Lilian Egleston

Airstrip playground for kids?

Editor, The Outlook:

As a pilot, and the mother of four children, I was wondering if you could bring attention to other mothers of the danger of their children playing on the runway at Carmel Valley Airport.

As you must know, the runway is short, and in poor condition, but is used by pilots and student pilots for short field landings, and takeoffs. Also, when Monterey is fogged in, you can usually get into Carmel Valley.

Several times in the past I have tried to land, but have found children playing on the runway, and have had to go around. Some of the children will not move, but stand in the way of a plane wanting to land.

Under normal conditions a pilot can push full power and the plane goes on, but what if an emergency landing should have to be made? The children in the way would be run down.

I wouldn't want it to be one of my children.

Sincerely,
Beverly Nordine

Thanks from SPCA

Editor, The Outlook:

We of the Monterey County SPCA would like to thank you and all of your staff for the wonderful help you have given to animals and people by the support you have given to the SPCA.

Your Pet of the Week section has helped to find good homes for many otherwise homeless animals. It has also brought in donations — necessary to purchase food and provide medical care for many animals in need of help.

Thank you again for your help and support. I am speaking for the countless animals you have made it possible for us to help, as well as those of us who are trying our very best to help animals and the people concerned with them.

Gratefully,

Town Meeting productive

Editor, The Outlook:

My conviction that the Valley is a truly great place to live and to raise children was certainly confirmed on Wednesday, March 6 at the Town Meeting. The turnout was far beyond my wildest hopes and the enthusiasm of the group indicated that those present were truly interested in helping the youth of this community.

In my opinion the greatest thing that came out of the meeting was the willingness of so many to sign up for the four committees that were formed---this means that a lot of people are willing to do more than just talk to help these youngsters.

Each of these four committees has had one or more meetings and has taken constructive action to shed some light on each of the areas questioned.

Anyone who has the slightest doubt about the great quality of children we have here in the Valley should have been present at the meeting with them last Thursday night (to which, by the way, adults were not asked)!

These kids made suggestions, not just for fun things for themselves, but on how to govern themselves and how to raise money to do some of the things they would like to do to help others.

In my last letter to the editor I made a comment about listening to the kids; well, it was well worth it!

I would personally like to thank all those who have shown an interest in this thing and are making it possible to take some constructive action for the youngsters in our community.

Dr. Patricia Gyneth H. May

NOT have it passed," he declared. Even though SD started in Carmel Valley it is still a regulation that will cover ALL of the county."

This concern was repeated by ranch owners and members of the Monterey County Cattlemen's Association through their spokesman, attorney Myron Etienne.

The grading ordinance limiting the amount of dozing, road building, excavation for stock ponds, etc., came under fire from ranch owners.

In moving not to adopt Slope Density Formula, Commissioner Keith Evans suggested the matter not be swept under the carpet. He hoped that advice and further help be offered the planning staff.

Peter Cailotto did not feel the amount of time spent in the formula was wasted and it could be used as a guideline without having it as an ordinance.

Dr. Edward Marcucci termed the 7-2 negative vote "the death of an ideal."

FLOOD PLAIN ZONING

Many of the same opponents spoke against the amendment to the Flood Plain Zoning ordinance which was originally passed in 1961. The amendment further defined what use could be made of primary (FP i), secondary (FP 2) and tertiary (FP-3) areas susceptible to flooding.

Zoning director Bob Slimmon emphasized that the Flood Plain Zone ordinance was already on the county book and had been since 1961, and in order to enforce it public hearings would have to be held. The matter under consideration was an amendment to the FP zone to make it comply with Federal regulations governing the appropriation of moneys to a Flood District for control construction.

Immediately under consideration is the Pajaro River area although, he added, even it has not been officially zoned as yet.

The majority of Valley residents speaking felt that this was not necessary here and felt persons living in the areas of possible flooding with full knowledge, should be allowed to develop their land as desired.

Tom Verga pointed out that persons required to build dikes on new development above an existing property would direct water onto other lands which were not so protected.

Dr. Joseph Noto stated that public hearings are a farce because no one hears of them or knows what is happening in time to do anything.

A number of petitions were presented in opposition to the amendment by river property owners representing up to 300,-000 acres of land in large and small parcels. Feeling was that it COULD be applied to CV in future and they wanted assurance it would not.

PlanCom members stated their awareness of the opposition but reiterated that it could not be applied without proper notification. The amendment was passed by a vote of 7-2, with Cailotto and Pruitt against. (A copy of the amendment is available to read at The Outlook office.)

Nurse to speak on refugee children

Scheduled to speak at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula on Sunday, March 24, at 7:30, is Miss Majken Broby, the noted director of the Kinderheim, mission home in Eckernforde, Germany.

MAJKEN BROBY

The program will be under the direction of Dr. Zoltan Vasvary, of the Community Church Missions Department and will also present a short musical program.

Miss Broby, a Swedish-American registered nurse, went to Europe in 1953 to see for herself the conditions of the refugee children's camps. Appalled at the suffering and need, she became interested in the Missions Kinderheim (children's home) situated in Eckernforde in Schleswig-Holstein.

Here, the volunteer staff of nurses, doctors, counselors and housemothers supervises the rehabilitation and over 230 children.

Miss Broby will show slides of the home and pictures of refugee camps.

Fifth grade students of Marilyn Ito, Barbara Hartloff and Barry Lastinger will have future sales.

Nina Swan Weds

Valentine's Day was the date chosen for the marriage of Nina Swan to Joseph J. Stevens, Jr., at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in Carmel Valley with the Rev. James Brock officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Patricia Swan of Carmel Valley and the late Clark Swan. The groom's parents are Mrs. A.T. Turner of Carmel Valley and Mr. Joseph J. Stevens, Sr. of Manteca, California.

The bride wore a street-length dress of her own design fashioned of mint green satin. White lace overlaid the bodice and formed the fitted wrist-length sleeves. Her bouffant veil was held by a bow of matching satin and lace, and she carried a bouquet of white baby roses and carnations with ribbon streamers.

Attendants were Lory Swan, sister of the bride, and Bill Armstrong of Carmel Valley.

Following a reception at the bride's home, the couple left on a wedding trip, and are now living in Monterey.

The Rhyming Philosopher

It maybe what you do that counts
But if it's based on lying
And empty promises that bounce
It can't be satisfying.

Some politicians squirm and squawk
And dodge the controversial,
While wasting time in fancy talk
Like far too much commercial.

How often parents promise kids
Some boon to ease the tension,
Then wonder why they flip their lids
When faced with false intention.

Though infants love a nurs'ry rhyme
And lovers dote on dreaming;
Two nickels always make a dime
While leveling beats scheming.

The lies you tell today increase
And hit when unexpected.
If truth is painful, hold your peace--
Least said the least affected.

Open house at 'Artists Cooperative' introduces new art gallery in Valley

Carmel Valley's newest gallery opened its doors for a meet-the-artists party and was filled with well-wishers Sunday.

The six artists who form the "Artists Cooperative" in the Carmel Valley post office building are Jeanne Fosnot, Margaret Ziegler, Jean Hofsas of Carmel Valley, and Stan Spohn, Bernice Huber and Lucile Herbert of Carmel.

Their work is, for the most part, representational and impressionistic in watercolor, oil and graphics ... professional and pleasant and eminently salable.

This brings the gallery count in the Valley up to three (five, if you count, as we'd like to, the Origins shop and the Marzi Pottery).

There is Marion Wilson's White Oaks Gallery to carry on tradition with proven area artists of the recent past and the well-known present... such as Abel Warshawsky, Nell Walker Warner, Donald Teague, Jack Swanson and Nancy Johnson; and the James Dickies who with the Jean Kellogg Gallery have shown themselves to be adventurous innovators with Mrs. Dickie's (Jean Kellogg) oils and graphics and those of other prominent area artists, as well as precious objet d'art.

The Origins shop, below the Kellogg, has hand weaving by prize-winning Anna Burgess and paintings by Joe. And just across the street Marzi's has hand thrown pottery by Rudi who also shows work by his contemporaries from points around the Bay.

Five show places for connoisseurs or the just plain curious ... well worth a trip up the Valley from well-worn Carmel! Chamber of Commerce please note.

Tantamount features paintings by Iris Alberto during March

The otherworldly paintings of Iris Alberto are to be seen in a one-man show in the Green Room Gallery of the Tantamount Theatre during March. Honored by a one-man show at the University of California at Berkeley, and group shows, East Coast and Japan, this is her first comprehensive showing, locally.

Iris Alberto and her pianist-composer husband, David, have been long-time residents of Carmel and vital figures in the cultural growth of the Peninsula.

Iris Alberto paints an unreal world from her imagination, a world of mood and emotions. Her unusual subject matter is matched by her technique; brush, palette knife, manipulation, all are implements for her paintings in oil on masonite panels.

Albee's "A Delicate Balance" to open Mar. 29 at Circle Theatre

Edward Albee's Pulitzer Prize winner, "A Delicate Balance," will open at the Circle Theatre in Carmel, Friday evening, March 29, under the auspices of the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula.

"A Delicate Balance" first opened at the Martin-Beck Theatre in New York in September of 1966 and its impact on both critics and audience was immediate.

It was hailed as Albee's best and most interesting play. Albee himself stated at the outset that he had not written any "son of Virginia Woolf." He insisted that "A Delicate Balance" was not a play laden with symbolism and he told one interviewer that it was a fairly straight-forward play... a naturalistic play.

The story of "A Delicate Balance" presents no strain on the understanding. A well-to-do couple, living in a suburban mansion in a state of precarious equilibrium with each other and with members of their family, find a neighboring couple (best friends for nearly forty years) on their doorstep one night, asking for sanctuary because they have suddenly been overwhelmed with a nameless anxiety. They cannot explain the terror that has gripped them.

The husband had been quietly brushing up on his French in his living room... the wife is busy with her needlepoint... and they are shaken with inexplicable dread. So they come to their friends' house and they indicate that they mean to stay there for the rest of their lives.

What exactly is the terror that has struck this pair? Playwright Albee never explains it and he leaves the question open for the most varied kinds of interpretation. Sharp crackling dialogue and the continuous interplay of ideas are hallmarks of an Albee play, the tools with which he probes the characters and the consciouses of civilized people and finds them wanting.

"A Delicate Balance" is being directed by Norman McPhee, managing director of the Circle Theatre. It will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights through May 11 at 8:30. Reservations are being accepted at 624-2669.

Annual rugby tourney to be held Sat..Sun.

The annual Monterey Rugby Tournament will be held at the Carmel Middle School athletic grounds this weekend on both Saturday and Sunday. Sixteen top rugby teams will vie for national honors.

The tournament will be played on three adjoining pitches (that's what the field is called) and each team will play three grueling contests on Saturday beginning at 8 a.m. and finishing at dusk.

On Sunday each team plays once, with play starting at 9 a.m. The championship match will commence about 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are available at the fields on the days of play. The Monterey Rugby Tournaments are jointly sponsored by the Monterey Jaycees and the Northern California Rugby Union.

Carmel Museum opens new show

An unusual exhibition, "The Magic Lens of Dr. Genthe," opened Tuesday at the Carmel Museum of Art, Dolores at 7th St.

Dr. Arnold Genthe was a brilliant German who came to San Francisco in 1895. He became famous as a society portrait photographer there and in New York where he lived from 1911 until his death in 1942.

The Carmel Museum of Art exhibition, which will be shown until June, embraces a far more important aspect of his work: experimental and documentary photography.

Genthe was one of the first men to take "candid camera shots" of San Francisco's Chinatown before the 1906 fire destroyed it. Saved from damage, his film is one of the few pictorial records of that early San Francisco history.

During the 1906 holocaust, he also took candid shots with the only available camera, a tiny box Kodak. These pictures are not only historically valuable, but also artistically superb.

From 1902 until 1911 Dr. Genthe maintained a vacation home in Carmel, where he did some of the earliest experimentation with color film. His Lumiere autochromes were the first colored photographs to be reproduced in an American magazine.

THIS PICTURE of Xavier Timoteo Martinez, colorful early San Francisco painter, is among those by Arnold Genthe in a new exhibit at Carmel Museum of Art. The scene was the formal opening of the Del Monte Art Gallery one evening in 1907. It had taken the insistence of the entire art colony to get him to rent a tuxedo, and when he finally complied, he appeared with the red windsor tie enlivening the effect. (Picture courtesy of Mrs. Xavier Martinez)

'Wait Until Dark' will chill play goers at Studio

Opening at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel on March 29 is the suspense drama, "Wait Until Dark." A Broadway success two years ago, it starred Lee Remick as the blind girl whose apartment is invaded by criminals trying to recover a shipment of heroin concealed in a doll.

Despite her handicap, the girl is by no means an easy victim and the tension mounts to a spin-chilling climax in the final scene.

The local stage production is under the direction of Don Osborn, with setting and lighting by Bob Evans, Jr.

Written by Frederick Knott, author of "Dial 'M' for Murder," "Wait Until Dark" will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Studio until early May. Reservations for dinner and show or show only may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

'Poverty" subject of MPC lecture March 23

Dr. Oscar Lewis, noted cultural anthropologist and author, will discuss "The Culture of Poverty" in a lecture Saturday, March 23, at 8 p.m. at Monterey Peninsula College.

Free tickets are available at the administration building reception desk.

The Doctor says:

by Dr. James Short

As I have said before, cancer is the second greatest killer in modern American society. Cardiovascular diseases are the number one killer. Lung cancer is increasing rapidly and is today the leading type of cancer among men by far. Lung cancer is also increasing in women, but not at such a rapid rate. We are convinced that we have the answer to the lung cancer problem. As to whether it will continue to increase or decrease depends upon the response of the public.

The second most common location of primary cancer is in the colon and rectum. The rate is about the same for both sexes. It's estimated that about 40,000 people will die of cancer of the colon and rectum this year. Cancer, in general, presents many mysteries and is a fertile field for research. Why, for instance, should cancer be so prevalent in the large intestine while the small intestine is almost immune? Why has stomach cancer declined in incidence by over 50% during the past thirty years, while cancer of the large bowel and rectum has continued at the same rate over this period? We don't have the answers. We can point to no specific factor as a cause of cancer of the large bowel and rectum. What we must do is to be ever on the alert for any signs or symptoms which might point to trouble.

Some years ago, a lady of about fifty – a registered nurse, incidentally – came to see me as a patient. She told me that she was having trouble with the rectum, that there was an occasional spot of blood on the toilet tissue and some bowel discomfort. I asked her how long this had been going on, and she said about four months. Examination showed a hard mass at the lower end of the rectum which bled easily on manipulation. It had all the appearance of a cancer, which it turned out to be. I had known this nurse for many years and knew her to be both highly intelligent and well skilled in her profession. Therefore, with considerable amazement I asked her why she had not sought help much earlier. Her reply was that she thought it was probably trivial, possibly a bleeding hemorrhoid, and that it would go away spontaneously. She had failed to heed a most significant danger signal. She was operated upon and survived for over five years. However, toward the end of this period, she suffered recurrent symptoms and finally died from her disease. At the time of operation, it was noted that the cancer had already spread to other tissues. Diagnosis and treatment a few months earlier could well have made the difference between death and survival. It seemed a pity that one who should have known better could have delayed so long.

What should we do then? How shall we protect ourselves? Since cancer in general is more prevalent during and after middle age, one should be more alert after age forty. Any change in bowel habits, pain in the abdomen, bleeding from the rectum, weakness, weight loss, loss of appetite, pallor, fatigue – any of these symptoms should lead to a complete check-up by your physician. Even without symptoms, one should have at least an annual periodic check-up. A check-up is more urgently indicated, however, when and if symptoms are present.

A complete history and physical examination should be made and recorded by the doctor. This should include a pelvic examination in women and a rectal examination in both sexes. A sigmoidoscopic examination is important. What is this? It is the introduction of an illuminated tube-like instrument through which the physician can take a direct look at the mucous membrane lining of the lower intestinal tract. A complete stomach and intestinal X-ray is advisable to include what is known as a barium enema, especially if digestive symptoms are present.

We can't be too careful. Your doctor has the tools. What is needs is your cooperation.

Cookery Corner

Featuring the favorite recipes of local cooks.

Forty-eight years of living in California (43 of them in Carmel Valley) doesn't necessarily mean one needs to lose ties with the Old Country; and MRS. NORA THOMPSON helps keep bright memories of her up-bringing in Cheshire, England, with cooking skills from home.

This week she shares recipes for two tea-time favorites and a special fruity accompaniment for buffet meats.

As a young and adventurous couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson arrived in Pasadena to seek their fortune in 1920. After five years they came to the Valley where Mr. Thompson went to work on the Samuel Fertig ranch, raising prize fowl . . . ducks, geese and special strains of guinea hen. He also laid out the landscaping for the enormous ranch, the site of which is now partly occupied by Los Laureles Lodge.

Mrs. Thompson now makes her home with her daughter, Joyce, Mrs. M.A. Quinto on Rancho Canada Rd. where her culinary know-how is much appreciated. She also uses it to good advantage at St. Dunstan's Church events in which she takes an active part.

TEA SCONES

2 cups flour
3 teas. baking powder
2 T. sugar
1/2 teas. salt
4 T. butter
2 eggs
1/3 cup cream or half-and-half
1/2 cup currants or raisins

Mix and sift dry ingredients, work in butter, add well beaten eggs, reserving small amount to brush over top of scones before baking off. Toss mixture onto floured board, pat and roll 3/4 inch thick, cut in squares or triangles and place on greased cookie sheet, brush top with egg mixture, sprinkle with sugar and bake in hot oven (450) until golden brown. Serve hot with butter, delicious with coffee or tea.

PARTY MUSTARD

2 T. dry mustard (I prefer Colman's)
1 T. vinegar-cider
2 T. jam, raspberry or strawberry
1/2 teas. salt
Dash of pepper

Mix very well and serve with ham or other buffet meat.

LEMON CHEESE

1 cube butter
4 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
Juice of 4 small or 3 large lemons

Mix together in double boiler, stir until mixture comes to a rolling boil and thickens – about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and cool; mixture will become thicker as it cools. Serve in tart shells with whipped cream topping or plain. It is also very good filling for chiffon or angel food cake.

OUTLOOK ON CARMEL

Notes from a Carmel cookbook collector

BY PHYLLIS JERVEY

Cookbooks are more in demand than ever and their titles are legion at the Thunderbird Book Shop in Carmel Valley. Having been an avid cookbook collector for many years, I plan to review various ones from time to time in this column.

Chacun a son gout... everyone to his taste, and "The Swiss Cookbook" by Nika Standen Hazelton is an outstanding new "cook's tour" of Switzerland's cantons and regions, its beautiful lakes and mountains, its markets and festivals... depicted to show what is most marvelous where. The book's 250 recipes describe in simple terms the whole menu from appetizers to desserts. With their famous fondues in every variation, superb fish and veal dishes in the authentic Swiss manner and the most tempting of chocolate and candied chestnut desserts... also fruit in profusion, all are here for the tasting.

With two published cookbooks of my own, I had planned to write a third one about Swiss cuisine in spite of my aversion to "choux rouge" (red cabbage) which still brings back the time I became ill after being made to sit in front of cold, greasy "choux rouge" ad nauseam for having refused to eat same at my 'finishing pensionnat' in Switzerland! Mrs. Hazelton dispells all such unappetizing memories and her book is so tempting and comprehensive that nothing more is left to be told about excellent Swiss fare.

During this Lenten season a charming supper, easily prepared, taken from "The Swiss Cookbook" is the following:

Heidi's Steamed Fish with Sauce

This is a way of making bland fish fillets more interesting.
6 fish fillets (flounder, sole, perch, etc.)
salt; butter
3 tbsp. all-purpose flour
1/4 cup minced parsley
1/2 cup sour cream
1 cup chicken broth
2 tbsp. fresh lemon juice

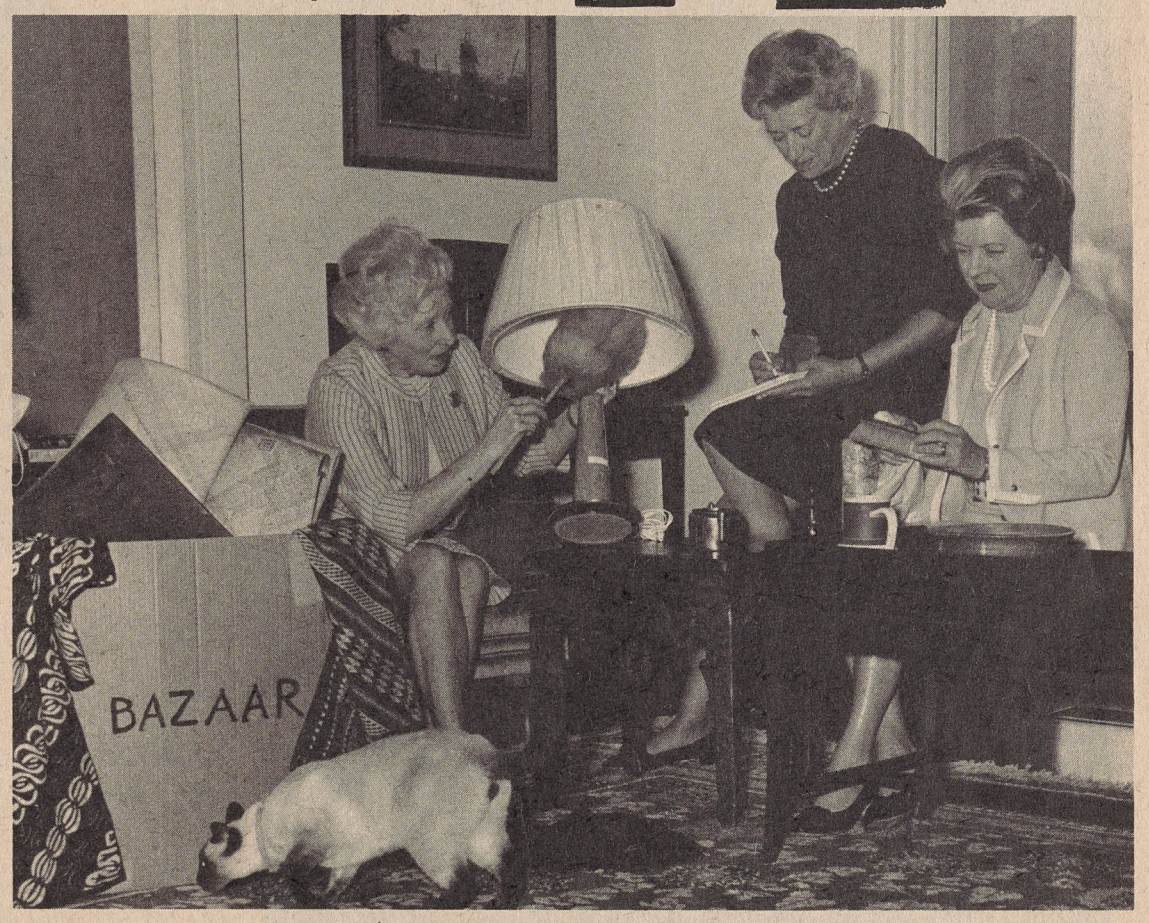
Sprinkle fish with salt. Heavily butter a table type skillet. Place fillets side by side and sprinkle with flour and minced parsley. Spoon sour cream in thin layer over this. Pour in chicken broth and cook uncovered over low heat, without turning, until fish is flaky. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Place skillet under broiler and broil until barely browned. Serve from same skillet. Makes 4 servings.

Swiss Chard from the Val di Blenio

Chop or cut Swiss chard into fine pieces; butter a baking dish and sprinkle it with fine dry bread crumbs. In this dish, put alternate layers of Swiss chard, thinly sliced Swiss cheese and a sprinkling of flour and salt. Sprinkle top layer with more bread-crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in 350 F. oven about 15 minutes until tender but not overcooked. Spinach may be treated in the same way.

Melon with White Wine

Any good ripe melon, such as cantaloupe, honeydew, Persian, etc. may be used. Peel and seed melon. Cut into 3 inch slices and put a layer in glass serving dish. Sprinkle with sugar and lemon juice. Top with more melon until all is used. Pour a dry or sweet white wine over fruit, but do not make soupy. Chill and serve with cookies. You may do this with any fruit in season.



THREE VALLEYITES, Mrs. Rudolph Alt, Mrs. Augustus Pollack and Mrs. William Pratt prepare for the yearly Bazaar to be given by the Carmel Women's Democratic Club at Sunset Center, April 4.

"Indoor Picnic" theme of Carmel Democratic Women's Club Bazaar to be held April 4

An indoor picnic atmosphere will prevail at a next-to-new sale, garden market and home-cooked luncheon at Sunset Center April 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., according to Mrs. Maureen Davis of Carmel who is chairmaning the event for the Carmel Democratic Women's Club. Mrs. Robert Coxe of Carmel Valley is co-chairman.

A sale of canned gourmet foods and home-baked goodies and candies will also be featured. There will be books galore and a specialty of the plant sale will be a variety of succulents to attract Valleyites who may have lost theirs in the big freeze.

SILENT AUCTION

A silent auction with Mrs. Augustus Pollock (659-2813) in charge, will lend suspense to the day.

Mrs. Gordon Brown, 659-4079, is in charge of the farmers' market; Mrs. Orlando Campisi, 624-3114, new and used jewelry; Mrs. Allen Schleicher, 624-5619, books; Mrs. Robert Peterson, 375-1378, baked foods and candy; Mrs. Elven Anderson, 375-1195, household items and small furniture; Mrs. Saul Weingarten, 624-6564, luncheon.

Women who wish to volunteer their help or donate items may contact any of the above women or donations may be brought to the home of Mrs. Coxe, 624-4297, on Rancho Tierra Grande (opposite the Farm Center in Carmel Valley), Mrs. John Raboti, 14th and San Antonio, or Mrs. Leonard Cohen, 2035 S. Carmel Hills Dr., in Carmel.

Menu for the $1.50 luncheon, to be served from 12 to 1:30 p.m., is baked ham, a variety of salads, tarts, coffee and tea.

Kite Contest awards to four age groups

The annual kite contest will be held on March 30... let's hope the weatherman smiles on us for the event.

Registration forms for children in the Carmel Unified School District were sent home from the schools and may be mailed to Drawer U-1, Carmel.

Three traditional prizes will be awarded at the Carmel Kite Festival. The Willis White award will be given for the kite of best international design. The Donald Buby-Malcolm Moran award will go to the Grand Champion, and Ernest Calley award to the champion kite.

Categories are for 8 years and younger, 9-12 years, 13-15 years, and adults. There is a separate bracket for those 12 years and younger who have made their kites without any adult assistance.

In each section awards will be given for 1) high flying, 2) best workmanship, and 3) prettiest. ...But they all have to fly!

FRANK CRAIG HAS just completed a ceramic kiln which he built out-of-doors, in an exceedingly beautiful setting overlooking the Salinas Valley. His studio is adjacent to the kiln and both share the inspiration of an ever-changing scene. The kiln is fired by butane and employs two blowers to distribute the heat. Frank has just started firing in the new kiln, but has gotten interesting color effects by reduction firing where he gets a carbon overlay on the glaze.

AFTER CENTERING, CRAIG draws up the cylinder to the desired height. Has had been without a wheel for quite a period of time, before building this one, so Craig has been working on getting back in the swing of forming pots on the new wheel. His ceramic pieces are shown on Fisherman's Wharf, the Coast Gallery and at Rudi Marzi's pottery shop in Carmel Valley.

Frank Craig, a potter with the world at his feet

Photographs and story by Ginnie Drew

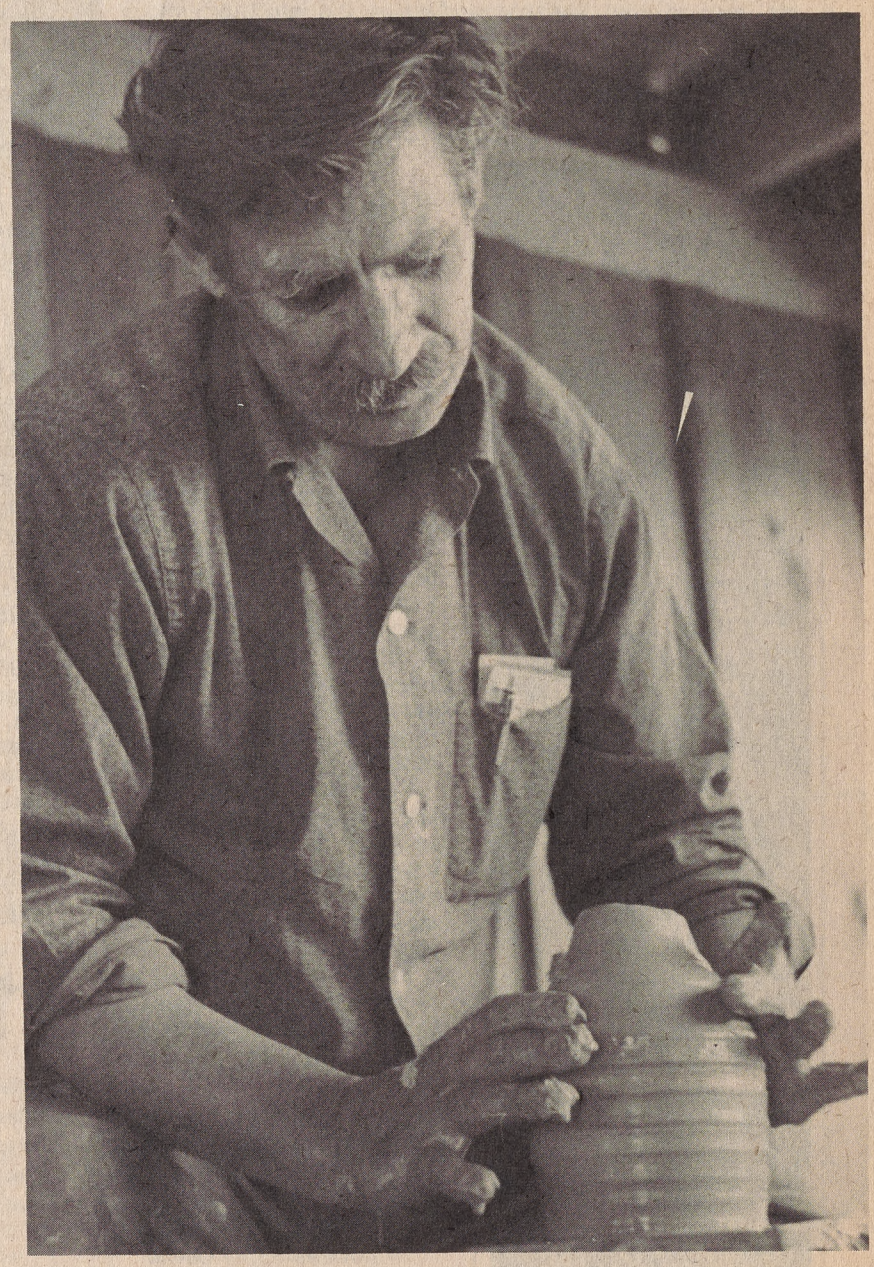
What a place to work! A knoll on top of the world is the setting for Frank Craig's ceramic studio. Located on the Roberts Ranch, at the top of El Caminito Rd., the view is from the northern side of the mountain and extends all the way to Moss Landing and over to Santa Cruz on a clear day. The city of Salinas lies like a tiny hamlet way down in the valley below.

A graduate of the School of Fine Arts in San Francisco, Frank had studied painting with Spencer Mackey and Roger Barr. About five years ago when he was living down the coast he watched a friend who was doing ceramics and became fascinated by it. He started studying in Carmel Adult School with Bob Lynn and then went on to MPC for courses with Joe Hysong.

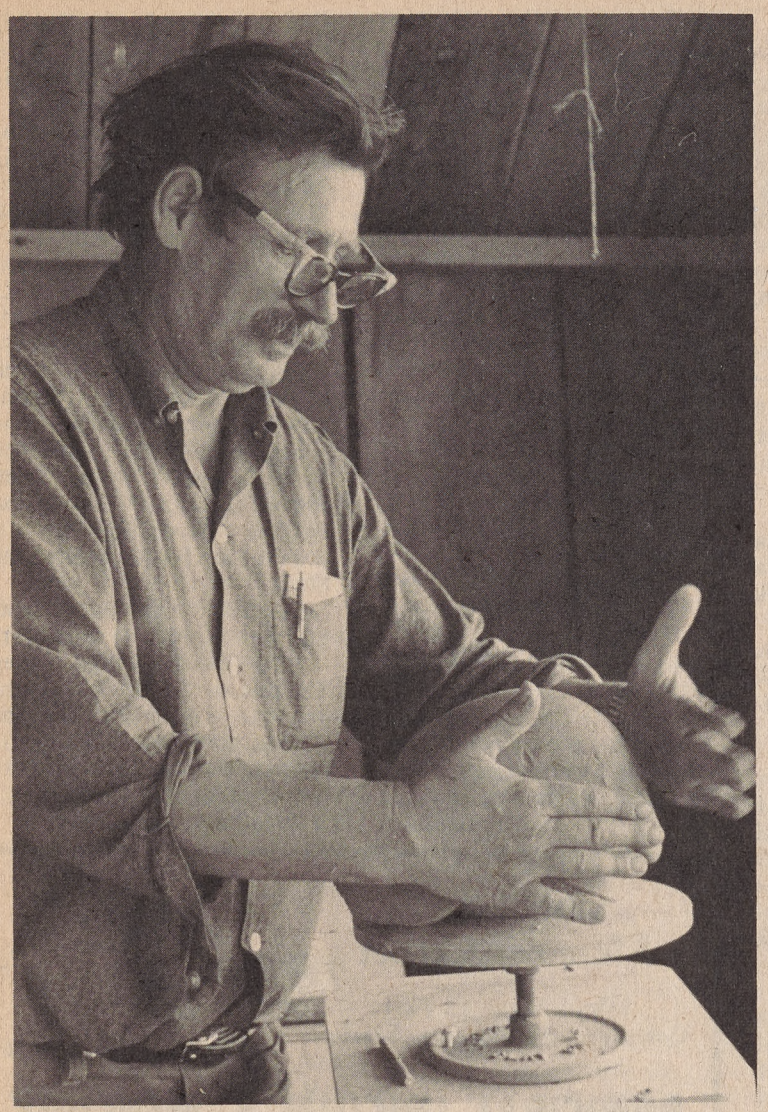
Although he is pleased with the new wheel which he built, Frank's greatest interest is in working and forming the clay by hand, in shapes from nature, with textures also dictated by nature.

Recently, Frank completed a new outdoor kiln situated on a flat area just outside the studio... the somewhat beehive-shaped kiln was constructed from plans in a book by Paul Solmer and is fired by gas. It took Frank about a month to build. The natural arch, which is the basic shape of construction, was formed by a chain hung between two points. By transcribing this arch to the construction plan, a natural, self-supported arch shape is made which doesn't even

CRAIG HAS MADE most of his equipment including the kick wheel which he just finished. He is also a firm believer in using anything that is handy as a tool and finds the kitchen drawer an excellent source of supply. One end of the sponge dish mop is used to smooth the damp clay, the other end is utilized as a cutting and trimming tool.



BRINGING THE TOP of the vase in to form a small slender neck, is done after the cylinder is completed.



A SPECIALTY OF FRANK CRAIG'S is the bowl, shaped over a rock. He flattens the clay with a large "rolling pin," and pats it over a boulder with an interesting shape. The edge is then trimmed to whatever depth he wishes. The pot is dried right on the rock over which it is formed.

require a keystone. It is a most stable form of construction and with this shape a kiln can be built as either an updraft or downdraft type, according to Frank.

In addition to kiln building, Frank just completed a kick wheel using a large old cog for the weighted wheel.

Although he had gained a reputation as a painter over the past 15 years, Frank says he has built up more recognition in pottery in the past two years than in painting for 15.

All manner of texturing materials are used by Frank, from pieces of oak bark to chunks of cork, rough rocks and twigs. Pieces of fabric or screening are also used to make an unusual finish to a piece.

Another interesting effect shown in a vase, was done by using coils of clay, pressed over or into a mold, then finished on the inside and left with the cylindrical shape showing on the outside.

AFTER FORMING THE FOOT of the rock-shaped vessel, Craig then textures the outside with a rough hunk of oak bark. A wide variety of textured designs have been achieved by using some lowly tool like a piece of bark or a stick or a fragment of screening or fabric.

Frank decided to build his own kiln, particularly, in order to use reduction firing to get a carbon overlay. He feels that what the clay and glaze do under these conditions are much more important than anything else. Many of his pieces have what is called "fire flashing," spots where intense heat or flame itself has hit the clay and changed its color.

This is a method widely used by the Japanese. Frank said, "The Orientals allowed the fire to caress the piece and leave its signature, but no two were alike."

Both Frank and his wife are from the eastern part of the country. Marge is from Massachusetts and Frank from New York, but raised in Appomattox, Va. However, he has been on the west coast for the past 30 years. The two met in San Francisco when she was doing lights and he was stage manager of the Inter-Players production of "Tartuffe."

Both in work and in the family life which Frank and Marge and their five children enjoy, there is a feeling of closeness to the natural elements of the world.

Whether it is a meal or a pot enjoyed in the out-of-doors, it cannot help but give a person both satisfaction and peace of mind. And Frank Craig has the perfect spot for it as he surveys the passing parade from his "top of the world."

ANOTHER UNIQUE DESIGN of Craig's is a fountain which can hang on a wall of a patio or entranceway. This one is hung on a garage wall which forms an entry to the front door. Two small holes, drilled in the siding, carry a plastic tube into the fountain at the top and away from the basin at the bottom. A tiny recirculating pump is located on the other side of the wall in the garage. A pail holds the small amount of water necessary to keep the stream splashing down through the design from the upper basin.

FRANK CRAIG has been painting for the past fifteen years, but has pushed that art form into the background since he started doing ceramics about five years ago. The large room next to his ceramic studio holds many paintings which reflect the wide range of techniques which he employs in painting as well as in pottery making. Watercolor is his favorite medium although he also uses acrylics and oils.

About a year ago in this column, I told of our efforts to put a halt to malicious and obscene calls. Today, I'm happy to report that the tide is turning in the battle against abusive telephone callers.

By working closely with Monterey Peninsula law enforcement agencies, giving many of our employees special training, and using a variety of new electronic devices, arrests and convictions have almost doubled in the past year.

The best advice I can offer you should you ever receive such a call, is to hang up. This usually deprives the annoyance caller of the main thing he wants – an audience. However, should the calls continue, I encourage you to call our Monterey Business Office.

With the increasing rise in convictions, the obscene and threatening caller is discovering that his chance of avoiding detection is growing slimmer every day.

Overheard at the movies:
"How far down do you want to sit?" asked the usher.
"All the way," answered the lady. "I am very tired."

Here's a helpful suggestion for you if you haven't filled out your income tax return as yet. The Internal Revenue Service again this year will be glad to answer questions by phone. If there's an IRS office near you, you'll find the number listed in the white pages of your phone book under the heading: "United States Government, Internal Revenue Service." Call them if you have a question.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

The arrival in Guam on Feb. 28 of Edward Norman Gorham was a happy occasion for Mrs. Mabel Love of Lower Circle since it placed her for the second time in the GREAT-GRANDMOTHER category. The baby's parents, Jeananne and Bob Gorham, are Navy residents of the island where Bob is on board ship attached to a division of Damage Control.

The ship is currently in port being painted, so he was home to welcome his 7 lb. 7 3/4 oz. son. Edward's sister is Cherie who will be two in April. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Friddle, former Valley residents, now of Pacific Grove, are the maternal grandparents. Master Gorham carries the names of both of his grandfathers.

BRIDGE WINNERS

The monthly masterpoint tournament of the Valley Bridge Club took place Tuesday evening at the Community Center. Winners in North-South were: first, Mrs. Betty Leslie and Mrs. Mary Drobek; second, Mrs. Irene Baldwin and Mrs. Lois Ann Bethea; third, Mrs. Penny Enlow and Mrs. Selma Rubin.

A second place tie added excitement to the East-West players. Mrs. Evelyn Lichty and Mrs. Gertrude Bisnett tied with Col. (ret.) A.L. Friedenthal and Maurice Stoney. Awarded first place were Mrs. Gertrude Stoney and Mrs. Martha Vail.

JEFF JOHNSON IS 8

Highlight of Jeff Johnson's eighth birthday party last Saturday was a nature hike down the Carmel River conducted by his big brother, Mark. The hike followed relay races and games planned by Jeff's father, Rev. Don Johnson at their home on Village Dr. and preceded punch and the enormous chocolate birthday cake baked by Mrs. Johnson.

Jeff opened gifts from friends including John Parks of Monterey, Kenny Jones, Shane Hattan, Bill Page, Gary Condren, and Steve Doelman.

NEW MATHEWS' SON

Mr. and Mrs. David Mathews of Ford Rd. welcomed a son on Feb. 23 at the Community Hospital. Michael David who weighed 7 lb. 5 ozs. has two sisters, Jennifer and Sandy. Lots of "TLC" (tender loving care) was provided for the Mathews' family by David's mother, Mrs. Don Mathews of New Braunfels, Tex., who spent a week before and a week after the baby's arrival, and by Lyn's mother who spent a week in the Valley. Lyn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Adams of Salinas.

MEXICAN ADVENTURE

Home on Garzas Rd. after a five-week sojourn in Mexico are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zoellin and daughters, Sylvia and Julie. The Valleyites flew south and occupied a motel with kitchen facilities on the outskirts of Guadalajara for a month. The girls kept up with their studies by enrolling in the American School of Guadalajara.

Both proficient young horsewomen, they did a great deal of riding by finding themselves Mexican steeds and a riding master who spoke only Spanish. Julie, a fourth grader with just a smattering of Spanish and Sylvia with two years of Spanish were both soon giving all equestrian commands in fluent Spanish. The Zoellins explored the area surrounding Guadalajara and all enjoyed a lot of sunbathing.

For their final week they took a "vacation" and flew to Puerta Vallarta. Julie fell in love with Jelapa, a charming fishing village accessible only by boat from Puerta Vallarta and has vowed to work toward a scholarship which will send her to Jelapa where there are no schools!

CV NATIVE

Miss Michaela Mary Ruth Valpey is one of those rare individuals who can honestly claim to be a "native" of Carmel Valley since she arrived at 7:22 a.m. Feb. 28 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Valpey, 5 Esquiline Rd., in Robles del Rio. The baby girl who weighed 8 lbs. and was 20 inches long certainly chose the right family because, according to her sign of the Zodiac, Pisces, under which she was born, she will require a lot of love and attention. This will be a natural for Michaela, since waiting to welcome her were a brother, Brendan 2, a sister, Gabby 4, and a sister, Laura Beth 10.

In addition are her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fernandez of Stockton who visited the Valley last week. Her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Valpey also reside in Stockton. Lucky Michaela also has three great-grandmothers: Mrs. Francis Williamson (maternal) of Petaluma, Mrs. Mae Gilbert (paternal) of Stockton, and Mrs. Kathleen Valpey (paternal) of San Francisco.

The Valpeys who have long fought the battle of the tree near Rosie's Cracker Barrel with the magnetic auto appeal, received international recognition in the February Readers' Digest with the quote of their sign "Watch for falling children" which had been lifted from the Monterey Herald.

RAY EVENT

Rob Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ray of Paso Cresta, celebrated his fourteenth birthday with a hot dog roast on the Carmel Beach. In addition to lots of good things to eat, hiking, and games, Rob's guests enjoyed the Ray family

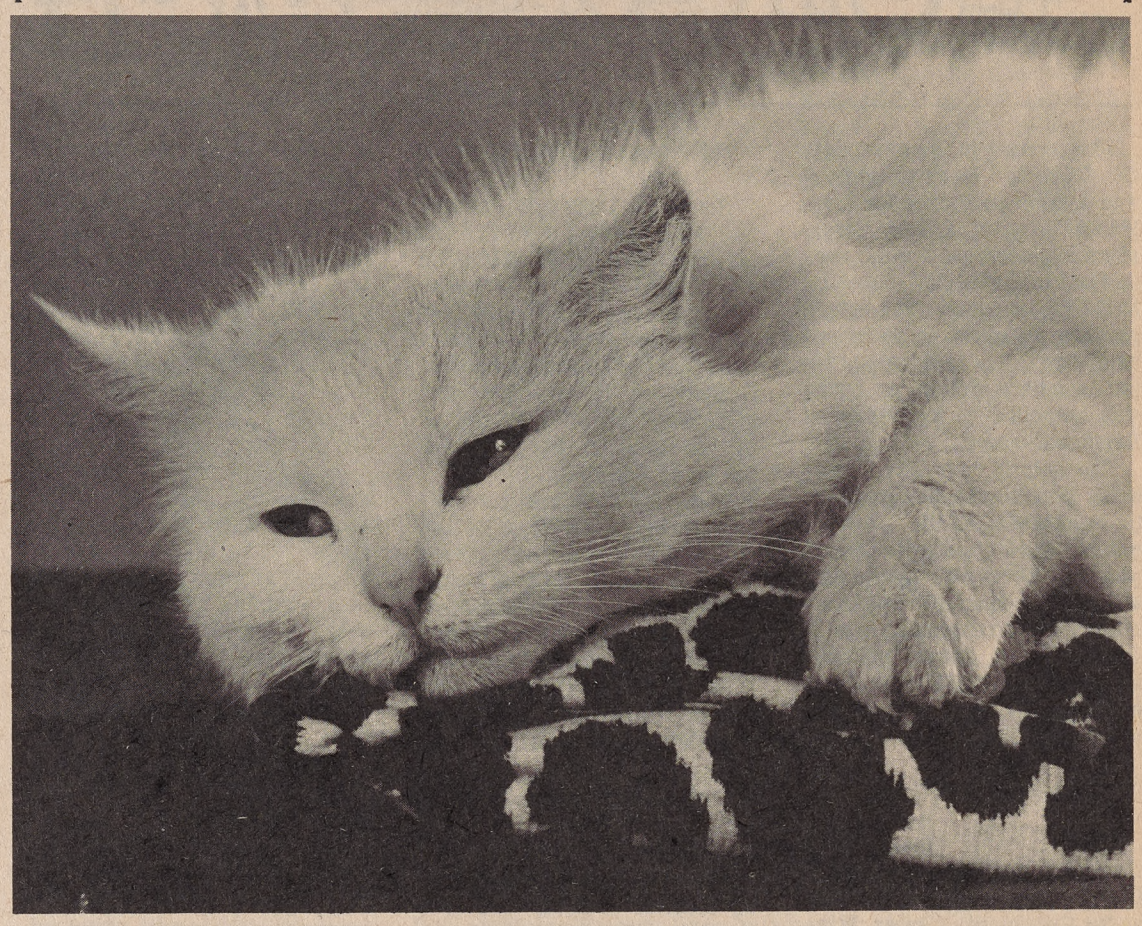
HAWAII VACATION

Mrs. Don Johnson and Mrs. Jim Ziegler have returned from eleven days in the Hawaiian Islands. As traveling companions they made a dynamic duo, for Florence's enthusiasm to see and do equally matched Margaret's of take and show. They were able to pack months of sightseeing into their allotted time.

Among the high points remembered by Florence were services at a small chapel on the Garden Isle of Kaui where a choir of six sang hymns in Hawaiian, visiting the "drive-in crater" of the volcano, Halo Kalani, which put on a magnificent display for them, the orchid gardens, the Hanalei Bay where the movie "South Pacific" was filmed, attending services at the oldest church in Hawaii which is located in Honolulu, "Needles" in the Iao Valley of Maui, the best ocean swimming found at Hana on Maui, shopping (!), the superb evening visiting Lahais, the old whaling port where "Hawaii" was filmed and the Old Pioneer Inn which is staffed by beach boys.

Pet of the week



PENSIVE PUSS is dreaming of a fireside to call his own while he poses for his portrait by ace photographers Louis and Virginia Kay who volunteer their services to the SPCA.

Executive Director Gwen May says he is a model boarder at the Animal Shelter in New Monterey. He's friendly and sweet and just one year old.

See him at 2099 David Ave., between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. any day except Thursday or Sunday. (Photo by Virginia and Louis Kay)

News from Hacienda Carmel

The annual Casa Lobos Domino Tournament, Hacienda Carmel, was played on March 13 and 14. Sixteen players qualified for team championship play March 12 and the Final Team Championship matches were fought out in the Casa Lobos Clubroom on March 14 in best two-out-of-three game matches. Paul Boyland and William Hughes emerged as Annual Team Champions with Richard Beaumhoff and Reuel (Bob) Sutton as Runners-up. In a hard-fought contest with Chilton Apps, George Salter won the "Baja Domino Lobo" award.

On March 27 the private Hacienda Carmel Treasure Sale will again be held in Casa Fiesta. As usual, any items of worth not disposed of during the sale will be donated to service agencies in the Peninsula community.

Commander F. E. Kimberling, Commanding Officer, Naval Reserve Training Center, will present an illustrated talk on his experiences in Antarctica at the March 21 meeting of the Casa Lobos Luncheon Club.

Elma Horne, Chairman, Art Committee, has announced a Spring Festival Show on April 18 of works of art by Hacienda Carmel artists. Works to be hung will be those not previously shown in Casa Fiesta. Professional judges will determine the ribbon winners in various media: oil, watercolor, pastel, acrylic, charcoal and pencil.

Carmel Business Assoc. meeting

Richard Bragg of MCID will speak on "Point of View" at the spring dinner meeting of the Carmel Business Association at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club this Thursday evening. Social time will start at 6, dinner at 7:30.

Up for vote will be the Executive Committee's recommendation to raise membership dues to $20 a year.

Six new members have been announced: Bettie's Secretarial Service, Beverly's Carmel Florist, Carmel Rancho Florists, I.D.S. (mutual funds), The Paper Bag and Theatre News Magazine.

Swim to serve on state college board

Dudley Swim of Carmel Valley, board chairman of National Airlines, Monday was named by Gov. Reagan to an eight-year term on the California State College board of trustees.

He graduated from Stanford in 1926 and was president of the Stanford Alumni Association in 1951-52. Vice commander of the American Legion in 1964, he was one of the founders of the Stanford Research Institute.

He was appointed last April by Gov. Reagan to the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

CLUBS

● CV Women's Club

Members of the Carmel Valley Women's Club will enjoy a salad luncheon and fashion show at their next meeting on Wednesday, April 3.

Mrs. Beryle Hufford is in charge of the luncheon to be held at the Community Center at 12:15.

Program chairman, Mrs. Mark Fields, will present a program featuring spring and Easter casual fashions from the Resort Pro Shop at the CV Golf and Country Club.

Models for the fashion show will be Mmes. Gordon Yates, Gordon Harlander, Karl Kunz, Richard McKenzie, William Broderick, James Stewart and Tom Bottaro.

● Republican Women's Club

The newly elected president of the California Federation of Republican Women, Mrs. Louis Lombardi, will be guest speaker Tuesday, March 26 at a luncheon meeting at the Mark Thomas Inn under the auspices of the Carmel, Monterey Bay and Salinas Republican Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Lombardi has been active in the Republican Party for over 30 years, having campaigned for Hoover, Eisenhower, Nixon, Goldwater and Reagan.

There will be a social hour at 11:30. Luncheon will be served promptly at 12:30. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. A.R. Cadd, 375-8156; Mrs. Jack Pira, 375-1043; Mrs. Bryce Barnard, 372-7610; or Mrs. Frank Cartright, 372-7433. The price of the luncheon is $3.00.

● Alliance Francaise

With the Mi-Carme (Mid-Lenten) Masked Dinner Dance Thursday, March 21, at the Casa Munras as the highlight of the local Alliance's March activities, those other entertainments which follow are:

On Saturday, March 23, between 3 and 5 there will be the annual tea at the USO in Monterey with tea tables to demonstrate beautiful and artistic settings. The Alliance will have such a table on display with Mrs. Edward Bowen of Carmel as chairman for the Alliance. The entrance fee is one dollar, to be used for Christian service.

On Tuesday, March 26, at 3 p.m., Mrs. Leonard Klene, and co-hostess Mrs. Jack Longfellow, will hold the monthly French Conversation tea. Members are asked to telephone Mrs. Kelene at 624-8034 or Mrs. Longfellow at 659-4789 for reservations.

There will be a conference in French given by Mr. Rey Hermes, of the Paris Alliance Francaise, on Wednesday, March 27 at 8:30 p.m. at the Carmel Art Association at Dolores and Sixth in Carmel. This is open to French speaking people with a small donation for the French language scholarship fund.

● Kiwanis Club

An explosive meeting was held by Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club Tuesday when Prof. Ned Sinclair, head of the explosives' department of the NPGS, spoke and demonstrated several powders and a blasting cap.

Lou Gardner was presented with a pin for 14 years of perfect Kiwanis attendance.

● Speech and Hearing Aux.

Carmel Valley and Carmel women predominate in the new officers recently elected for the Auxiliary of the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing.

Elected for the 1968-69 term were Mrs. Edward Weiner, president, and Mrs. James Kalher, vice president, both of Carmel Valley, Mrs. Richard Osborn, secretary, Carmel; and Mrs. James Parsons, Monterey, treasurer.

New chairmen are Mrs. Gene England, membership, and Mrs. Henry Thomas, Children's House, both of Carmel Valley; Mrs. William Sorenson, speech, and Mrs. John Robinson, publicity, both of Monterey, and Mrs. Philip Olson, special projects, of Pacific Grove.

Staff members presented Mrs. Earl Brown, outgoing Auxiliary president, with a silver tray as a token of appreciation.

Saturday's Community Center movie

The ORIGINAL (NOT A CARTOON) -- "KING KONG"! We present the ORIGINAL masterpiece which thrilled millions and many generations with tremendous special effects -- back to delight a new generation of youngsters! ...An expedition to a jungle island discovers King Kong...When they bring him back to New York, Kong goes berserk. In one of the most exciting conclusions in motion picture history, the monster ape climbs the Empire State Building and battles attacking planes! The mighty ape dwarfs everything in his path, and is one of the motion picture classics of all time!
Note: Although made 35 years ago, this picture may possibly be frightening to the very young and impressionable.

Recent births at the Community Hospital:

A son, Dana Tai Soon, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burgess, Carmel Valley, on Feb. 26.

A daughter, Tina Marie, to Mr. and Mrs. John Mills, Carmel, March 4.

A son, Steven Kawika, to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Radowicz, Carmel Valley, on March 8.

Support needed

Little League sign-up to be Saturday

Spring is once again being forecast by the Little League sign-ups. The final one will be 10 a.m. to 12 noon, March 23, at Casey Field on Paso Hondo. All players must sign up even if they played last year. Each boy must bring his birth certificate and be accompanied by a parent.

Although Casey Field has been built, the field needs much work as well as financial support to be in shape for the coming season. Volunteers, particularly parents of the players, are asked to bring tools and muscles March 23 for a general cleanup and revival.

The Little League treasury has yet to recover from the strain of building Casey Field.

SPORTS

Several other necessary projects are still undone and your financial contributions (tax deductible) will be most welcome. Checks should be made payable to Carmel Valley Little League, and may be sent to George Palmer, 10 Paso Hondo Road, Carmel Valley.

The Carmel Valley Little League now has two sponsored teams. The Volunteers are sponsored by the CV Volunteer Fire Dept., and the Red Sox, last year's champs, by the CV Lions Club. Two teams, the Giants and the Tigers, are still looking for sponsors on the majors plus the four farm teams. Sponsorship is a fine way to help the boys with uniforms and equipment.

This year's Little League officers are:

Varsity cagers top Gonzales

Carmel High varsity baseball club scored a 6-3 victory over Gonzales Friday there in the league opener.

The Padre JVs lost 6-2.

Carmel is readying for tough King City games this Friday there.

Carmel varsity attack was headed by Brink Harrison, who had both a single and triple, stole two bases and scored three runs, plus Packy Porter's efforts, 2 for 3 and driving in two runs.

Pitcher Guy Preece threw a three-hitter for five innings before being victimized by two Carmel errors in the 6th inning. He gave way to relief pitcher Ben Artellan, who struck out the side with bases loaded, protecting the one-run Carmel lead.

CHS track team win 3-way meet

Carmel High varsity track squad dominated a three-way meet Friday at Gonzales with 77 points to Gonzales' 44 and Junipero's 30.

The Padres' lightweights trailed by a few points to the last relay, which they won, to tie the meet 55-55 with Gonzales. Junipero was close behind with 52.

Coach Bob Walthour pointed out that about as large a crowd as for football games turned out, apparently because the meet was held at night.

The Padres compete against King City on the home track this Friday afternoon.

Outstanding performer for the Padres, Coach Walthour commented, was Dan Dills who won the 880 in 2:01.6 and also the 440 in 54 seconds.

In the lightweights he cited William Ziegenbein, a freshman, who won both the 100 and 220 yard races.

CHS swimmers lose to Monterey

Carmel High swimmers lost to powerful Monterey Friday, the varsity 61-34 and lightweights 63-23.

After an Alisal meet this Monday in the Carmel pool, the locals will meet Seaside here Friday.

Bob Horn again swept diving competition to win with 182.70 points. George Shephard won the 400 freestyle in 52:3.9 and Larry Young took the 100-yard breaststroke for lightweights with 12:1.5. Gary Cohn also did impressively for the varsity.

The lightweight medley record set in 1963 was smashed by the Carmel contingent by more than two seconds. Sprinting over the course in 2:13.5 were Parker Johnson, Larry Jung, Mike Burz and Jim Dickenson.
